

We love the Craftsman Style Homes...

Liz and Jim LaParr, homeowners in Sunflower Landing, say they “love the Craftsman style homes featured here and the vision of the community that builder, Mike Ferraulo is developing”. The home is beautiful, open and airy inside with porches both front and back, and of course an attached garage.

“There are many little amenities”, Jim says, “the association takes care of the property when we are in Florida and the neighbors are nice enough to look in to make sure everything is ok. Also, the taxes are very reasonable, which is important when you have a second home. Sunflower Landing is located out of town, yet close enough to necessities.”

“Being on the ground floor of the development, and meeting new people” as the community of Sunflower Landing grows is fun for Liz. She likes the neighborhood, the walking trails, being close to the canal, also the fact that the builder lives here.
